AP courses are rigorous, "entry-level" college course, and include an end-of-course exam. This exam is a National exam, given on the same date & time across the country. More of these courses may benefit students in multiple ways, including strengthening eligibility to be accepted to a 4-year university, as well as potentially earning college credit at minimal cost. Acceptance of AP courses & test scores are university dependent. AP end-of-course exam cost must be paid by the deadline given. Deadlines and cost vary by the College Board. AP courses also go towards the initial 15 credit hours for students participating in CCP. Advanced Placement courses require a commitment to academic excellence.

- demonstrate academic excellence
- accept the time commitment
- succeed in end-of-course exams
- receive parental approval & support
- demonstrate approval
